Community Driven Research Day

Bringing Community Based Organizations and Local Researchers Together

October 28th, 2010 :: 9:00am to 1:00pm
University of Pennsylvania
Terrace Room, Cohen Hall, 249 South 36th Street

COMMUNITY-DRIVEN RESEARCH DAY encourages collaboration between researchers and community based organizations (CBOs) and community groups who have questions that they are interested in answering about violence prevention and/or the built environment. Through an interactive poster session, CBOs and community groups will highlight their questions to program participants who will include area non-profits, community groups, public sector partners, and researchers from The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, The University of Pennsylvania, Temple University, Drexel University, and other local academic institutions. CBOs, community groups, academic researchers, and students will be able to meet and discuss potential, mutually-beneficial collaborations.

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

CBOs and community groups interested in developing partnerships to conduct research are urged to participate in an interactive poster presentation that will highlight the organization's/group's mission, goals, and major accomplishments, as well as display questions that they are interested in answering about violence prevention and/or the built environment. Submission forms are due by October 1st, 2010.
