

Creative Action

The Arts in Public Health

Digital Story-Telling with "Our Stories, Our Health"

Using self-made media to improve the health of Laotian and Vietnamese immigrants

Giang Nguyen, MD MPH MSCE

Assistant Professor, Family Medicine & Community Health
University of Pennsylvania

Dr. Giang Nguyen will discuss the Penn Asian Health Initiatives' community outreach project, "Our Stories, Our Health", which aims to engage immigrant Laotian and Vietnamese seniors in the process of health needs identification, first-person storytelling, video production, and community discussion about health. The project includes the creation of short videos using recorded narratives of immigrant health experiences, the design of workshops using the videos to engage communities in discussions led by immigrant seniors, and the education of health professionals and the general public about health disparities and barriers faced by immigrant seniors. For more information about this project, including a list of key sponsors, please visit:

<http://newroutes.org/projects/ourstoriesourhealth>

March 19th @ 12:00pm (lunch included)

Rm 365, Huntsman Hall
3730 Walnut Street

RSVP for this event at: cphi@pobox.upenn.edu

