

PENN's Center for Public Health Initiatives and VA CHERP present:

UNNATURAL CAUSES

exploring healthy equity through the  PBS documentary series

An interdisciplinary speaker & video program.
At PENN for Fall Semester 2008-2009.

Location:

Claudia Cohen Hall (formerly Logan Hall), Terrace Room
249 South 36th Street, on Penn's campus

To attend any event, RSVP to cphi@pobox.upenn.edu

Fall 2008 UNNATURAL CAUSES Episodes and Speakers

Monday September 15 NOON - 2:30 PM	In Sickness and In Wealth Introductory episode that looks at reasons why some US populations have poor health and how patterns of health and illness reflect underlying patterns of class and racial inequities.	Adewale Troutman, MD, MPH, MA Director, Louisville Metro Public Health and Wellness and Associate Professor, University of Louisville School of Public Health
Monday October 20 NOON - 1:30 PM	When the Bough Breaks An exploration of why African American women of all education and income levels have preterm labor at a rate that is nearly twice that of white American women.	Jennifer Culhane, PhD, MPH Associate Professor, Department of OB/GYN Drexel University College of Medicine and Senior Investigator, Adolescent Medicine Children's Hospital of Philadelphia
Monday December 8 NOON - 1:30 PM	Becoming American An examination of the "Latino paradox" -- a term used to describe how recent Latino immigrants to the US, despite being poorer, are generally in better health than relatives who have been here for a longer time -- featuring residents of Kennett Square, PA.	Steve Larson, MD, MPH Assistant Dean for Global Health Programs and Associate Professor, Emergency Medicine Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania and Sarah Paoletti, JD Clinical Supervisor and Lecturer, University of Pennsylvania Law School

This speaker & video program will continue in the Spring Semester 2009.

For more information about the speaker series visit us online at www.cherp.org or www.cphi.upenn.edu

